

VAILE ATTACKS SEWER PROJECT AS HE PLEDGED

Mayor Defends Proposal at Friday's Meeting of City Council

The explosion in the city hall which Commissioner Joe E. Vaile promised one week ago last night, came as heralded last evening, with but three members of the city commission, two other city officials, four spectators and the press present. Commissioner Cal Tyler was absent on a visit in South Dakota and Commissioner Fred Dimick was spending the week-end and holiday in Chicago. The business to be transacted by the council consisted only of the payment of a claim in the sum of $434 to the Dixon Municipal band. Commissioner Vaile started by stating that he preferred to wait until the entire council was present before voicing his promised protests against the proposed sewerage treatment plant, whereupon Mayor Slothower urged him to proceed with his message. The commissioner then launched his attack on the project, which he has promised for many weeks.

Charges "Misrepresentation"

"We, the members of the city council, are the custodians of the people's interests in Dixon," he stated. "To spend the sum of $260,000 on this project entitles every citizen of Dixon to a picture of the project. I wish to state here and now that this has been a misrepresented proposition and will proceed to prove my charges. "At first we were told right here in this council chamber that if an application for this federal grant was not filed within a ten day period, that we would not receive the grant. Then we were told by a representative of the Illinois water commission that we would be forced to install a sewage disposal system. That, I wish to say, is not the law, and all of this is merely propaganda and political propaganda at that. This council has been high-pressed into this thing."

"I admit that I have voted for it right along but when I voted for the proposition, I did not know what it was all about. When the word came that a 45 per cent. federal grant was forthcoming, I was in favor of the proposition fully 100 per cent."

Asks Investigation

"But, we are not receiving 45 per cent of the cost of this proposed plant. That fact has been misrepresented. It is purely political propaganda. Already this city has invested $4,300, including the former proposed sewage disposal plant project and what have we got? Is not the sewage in the river better than sewage in the homes of Dixon? I ask that every member of this council investigate statistics recently made public in these government programs where four dollars is expended for administration and one dollar for actual relief."

"As I have viewed the plans for this proposed plant in Dixon, I will say that they are the most elaborate of anything I have ever seen. Towns along Rock river are not falling over each other to build these plants but are turning them down. The whole thing to me looks just like the Marcus deal over the river a few years ago, which some of us remember."

Cites Rockford Figures

The commissioner then cited the item of cost of construction and equipment and referred to the Rockford sewage treatment plant, "with $17 window shades."

"The first plans submitted by the former council had a fine pumping station on the north side and a living apartment over the main plant on the south side. I understand that these things are not included in the plans now being considered. I don't know what they have in them. Dixon's credit and bonding power are good at the present time. I have no ax to grind with any one, but let us keep politics out of our city's improvements."

"The taxpayers who are assuming the cost of this project do not know what it is all about and have not been told about it. It is only a birth mark and an I. O. U. which is to be carried by the city's taxpayers for a period of years to come. The 45 per cent federal grant is to be used for political affairs. Right now we have between $35,000 and $40,000 in delinquent assessments and in the face of this, we want to dive into this thing."

"Misuse of Money"

"This so-called federal relief is the biggest and most rampant misuse of the people's money in the history of Dixon. Why be victims of these politicians? It reminds me of the old song 'Sweet Adeline'. Let us clean up the lighting system in Dixon. If we must do something constructive and also give some attention to the streets in the business section. The present lighting system in Dixon would not do justice to a second-class tourist camp. When the time comes that we need a sewage treatment plant, Dixon will build it. I do not consider this the average time to build a sewage treatment plant."

PERSIAN ENVOY SEEKS REDRESS

Demands Maryland Officer Be Punished for Abusing Him

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Punishment for the Elktion, Md., policeman who handcuffed him and otherwise "insulted" him was demanded today by the Persian minister, Ghaffar K. Djafar, in making a formal protest to Secretary Hull. The minister was arrested on a speeding charge at Elktion Wednesday.

Hull expressed this government's extreme regret over the incident and promised to make a thorough investigation. Djafar left the State Department satisfied, he told newsmen, with the steps that had been taken.

He added, however, that he considered punishment of the arresting officer would be necessary to give him full satisfaction for the indignities which he said he suffered.

Envoys Immune

Foreign envoys enjoy immunity from arrest.

The Persian minister complained to newsmen that both he and his wife were insulted by the arresting officer when his machine en route to New York from Washington was stopped.

"I was a mere passenger, sitting in the back seat," the envoy said. "If the officer had to arrest my car, his duty was to proceed against the driver."

The votes so far counted, the Digest said, are from Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma and Texas.

NO MORE "DOLE" MONEY FROM U. S.

State and Local Governments Now on Own in Caring for Needy

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—State and local governments were on notice today that the Federal government would give them no more "dole" money.

Officials said that from now on the Federal government's responsibility in relieving distress will be confined to financing works projects to give jobs for "unemployables."

After states have exhausted Federal "dole" funds already granted, they and the local governments will be expected to take care of "unemployables" with their own funds.

It is not known what steps President Roosevelt will recommend to Congress to take care of "unemployables" who may still be in need after the present $4,800,000,000 work relief fund is gone. He recently told a conference of mayors that the government would allow no one to starve.

May Delay Decision

The President, it is indicated, probably will make no decision until the first of the year when his aides complete surveys on the number of men likely to find employment in private industry.

The announcement about the dole, which was made yesterday by Aubrey Williams, assistant relief and works progress administrator, at the same time that he said the goal of providing 3,500,000 relief jobs would be reached by Sunday, actually does not mean an immediate end of direct relief in all states.

Some of the states have received allotments as recently as yesterday. Thus direct relief is expected to continue for some time in certain places.

RELIEF ALLOCATIONS

Chicago, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Tentative allocations of relief funds to Illinois counties for December were announced today by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the IERC.

They totaled approximately $7,200,000, and the funds included the $5,000,000 of Federal money which will be the last the state will receive. Federal administrator Harry Hopkins has announced. Reynolds said.

"These (the allocations) are all subject to change since we cannot forecast the exact effect of WPA employment in every county."

"We are allocating all the Federal funds received yesterday, but expect that there will be unexpected balances on hand at the end of the month in many, if not most of the counties."

Cook county's allotment was $4,196,986. Downstate counties were assigned $2,592,548. In addition, there were a number of small allotments for special purposes.

The Federal funds were supplemented with approximately $2,000,000 of available sales tax money after December, only unemployables are to be given direct relief, the WPA program being planned to afford work for all able bodied unemployed.

Tentative allocation of funds for Lee county is $9,302.

The petition asks that the marriage be dissolved and declared null and that the plaintiff be awarded the care and custody of the two children.

Wilfred Cunningham of this city was granted a decree for divorce from Cora Cunningham by Judge Harry Edwards in the circuit court this morning. The couple were married June 10, 1923 at Oregon. ## Mother Confesses She Shot Her Son While Unstrung by Accusing Note

Mrs. Dorothea Livermore Says Husband Was Unfair

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothea Wendt Livermore was quoted by officers today as saying she shot her 15-year-old son, probably fatally, while "unstrung" by a letter from her former husband, Jesse Livermore, Wall Street operator.

A 22 calibre bullet near his spine, the son, Jesse Livermore, Jr., was being kept alive by an artificial lung. Surgeons prepared for an emergency operation as a last resort.

In the same hospital, Mrs. Livermore was questioned by District Attorney Perry Heckendorf and undersheriff Jack Ross.

"They said she told them a letter from the elder Livermore on Thanksgiving Day had 'upset' her. 'He accused me of many false things,' they quoted her as saying. 'He said I kept his letters from our sons, too. He said a lot of things. I got the letter Thanksgiving Day. It upset me, unstrung me. That's what it did. 'I didn't intend to kill my son. My son just dared me to do it. That's all. And I guess I did it.'"

No Record Made

No formal record of her statement was made, since she was under the influence of opiates administered by physicians, but sheriff's deputies planned to remove her from the hospital today for more questioning.

She was held on a technical charge of suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon. A deputy guarded her room.

The elder Livermore reached the bedside of his son early today after a dash by airplane and motor car from St. Louis. At that time the boy was reported to have "rallied slightly."

District Attorney Heckendorf said he would ask Livermore to sign a complaint charging the 38-year-old matron with assault with intent to commit murder.

"If the boy dies, she will be charged with murder," he declared.

Tried to Absolve Mother

Between spells of unconsciousness, young Livermore attempted to absolve his mother from blame, whispering—"She didn't mean to hurt me. It was my fault, I guess. It was an accident."

The boy who said he spent most of Thanksgiving Day away "because there was so much drinking going on at home," returned at midnight and remonstrated with his mother for her drinking. District Attorney Heckendorf learned.

"We quarreled about it. There were other things too, I didn't like," the wounded youth said.

D. B. Neville of New York, who said he was a house guest of Mrs. Livermore's and engaged to marry her, recalled that young Livermore then announced, "I'm going to get so drunk so mother will know how it looks and she will stop her drinking."

Neville told Undersheriff Ross that young Livermore raised a bottle of whiskey to his lips and his mother answered, "I'd rather see you dead than drinking."

Young Livermore then obtained the rifle and handed it to his mother, Neville said, saying, "Well, here you are." From another room, Neville said, he heard a shot.

Neville found the boy lying wounded on the floor and Mrs. Livermore beside him, crying, "I've shot my boy! I've shot my boy!"

PENSION STATUS VERY UNCERTAIN

Illinois Officials Got Little Information in Washington

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Without definite information as to what the federal government wants, it was learned today that the old age pension bill before the special session will have to be amended.

De Witt Billman, executive secretary of the Legislative Reference Bureau, did not say what the amendments would be. He and Assistant Attorney General Montgomery S. Winning went to Washington last week to confer about state co-operation in the social security program, but Billman said they got only "impressions" and no definite information.

A report of the trip is to be made to legislative leaders next. Billman said similar uncertainty about federal plans exists in other states.

There were unofficial reports that many major amendments would be needed in the bill.

Suspicion that all was not well with the old age pension measure which was passed by the house and advanced to second reading in the senate, first was aroused last week. Rep. R. G. Soderstrom, Streator Republican and president of the state federation of labor, asserted that the bill would limit the old age pensions to less than $30.

He argued that the provision that the state's share would be not more than $15 limited the entire pension of a person to that amount. He pointed out that the federal law specified that the government would refund half the state pension.

Immediately thereafter at Speaker Devine's suggestion Horner ordered Billman and Winning to Washington. There they were told to learn also whether the plan to put administration of the act under county boards appointed by county judges met federal requirements.

CENTENNIAL OF MARK TWAIN IS BEING OBSERVED

Hannibal, Mo., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Today is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Samuel Clemens—Mark Twain.

But a celebration of the Missouri humorist's centenary has been in progress nearly a year.

At one time or another the entire world has joined in. John Masefield, Britain's poet laureate, only yesterday proposed the erection of a monument on the Thames to honor the American writer.

The celebration will end tonight at Hannibal, Twain's boyhood home. He was born Nov. 30, 1835, at Florida, Mo., 30 miles inland from this Mississippi river city, but moved here with his parents when a child.

American Airline pilots, flying between Chicago and St. Louis, were told to wreath the in the Mississippi river, on which Twain was a pilot and of which he wrote.

Homer Croy, a native of Missouri but now a New York playwright, novelist and humorist, will make the principal address in a nation-wide broadcast. A dinner will precede it.

An application for WPA work was found in the dead man's pockets.

Virginia County in Which Comely Girl Was Convicted of Patricide Has Another Similar Case Today

Big Stone Gap, Va., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The arrest of a 16-year-old boy on a charge of killing his father because he whipped him aroused mountaineers today in Wise county, where comely Edith Maxwell was convicted last week in a similar case.

The Cumberland hill folk still were talking about the 21-year-old girl's dramatic trial when L. N. Falin was fatally shot last night at his home in Wild Cat Valley.

A son, Abram Falin, surrendered voluntarily to Deputy Sheriff Dan Eustice and was treated for wounds which he said his father inflicted on him before the shooting.

The sheriff said the youth told him this story:

Father and son argued bitterly over an automobile. Then the elder Falin knocked him down, beat him, and "threatened to kill him."

The boy ran to another room and grabbed a shotgun. Coming from the room, he met his father, who had a pistol.

The deputy sheriff quoted the boy as saying he fired both barrels of the shotgun and that his father fell mortally wounded.

Young Falin's mother and two sisters were reported in the house, at the time, but did not witness the shooting.

AAA FACES FIVE POINT OFFENSE

Eastern Mills Start New Attack in U. S. Supreme Court

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Five charges of unconstitutionality were directed at the New Deal's firm program in a brief filed by the Supreme Court today by the Hoosac Mills of Massachusetts.

The brief, filed in reply to the government's appeal of a circuit court decision holding the original AAA taxes invalid, also agreed to a complete constitutional test of the AAA, both as originally enacted and as amended last session in an effort to bolster it against constitutional attacks.

Oral arguments in the case are scheduled for December 9. The Hoosac attorneys said their argument will be along five main lines:

Five Main Points

1. "Congress exceeded its limited powers and trespassed upon powers reserved to the states and to the people in authorizing and applying taxes under the AAA."

2. "The processing and floor taxes are levied in violation of the fifth amendment." (Taxing one class for benefit of another.)

3. "Congress may not, under guise of the taxing power, assert a power not delegated to it by the constitution."

4. "The floor stocks taxes are direct taxes and are void because not apportioned."

5. "The act is invalid in that it delegates legislative power to the Secretary of Agriculture."

Rome, Nov. 30.—Premier Mussolini's cabinet today approved plans for strengthening Italy's supreme council of defense.

A communique, issued after a session of the ministers, announced that the membership of the committee had been enlarged to include many new officials.

The expansion was regarded as a move to assuage the nation's defensive position could be overlooked in this period of crisis.

The council will have added to it the ministers of justice, education and agriculture.

THE TIGHT-ROPE

By Joseph Fort Newton
BORGE Tyrrell, who has been called both a saint and a sculptor, described such success as he had won in the battle of life as "mere tight-rope balancing, never a day of rest," always a danger.

"Mind and body alike earthward," he added; and any moment he might lose his balance and come down with a thud. Achievement was not inevitable; it was uncertain; utter defeat was not unthinkable.

"If we allow for some exaggeration—since for even the worst of us the pull of mind and body is not always earthward, yet the fact that the struggle for the good life is a constant strain.

To some people the finest things seem to be easy and natural, if not effortless and spontaneous; but that is only seeming. Behind the scenes "the road winds uphill all the way," as it does for us.

The mastery of any craft does convey a sense of ease, but we forget the long, hard discipline behind the mastery. "What is easy to read was hard to write," and it was often written over and over again.

Dorothy Wordsworth said of her brother: "He writes with so much feeling and agitation that it brings a sense of pain." But when we read his poems there falls over us a sense of vast, healing calm.

In the House of Commons John Bright made a great speech, in which he spoke of the angel of death as so near that one could hear "the beating of his wings." One of his friends warned him about it, saying that even a slight misstep might have changed his pathos into bathos.

So near is the sublime to the ridiculous; it is mere tight-rope walking, and we preserve a precarious footing. Just so in the good life, and if some poor soul loses its balance we must be pitiful.

Nor is such pity soft stuff; it does not tolerate evil or paint it in fair colors. But it does recognize that our common way is perilous that our stability is but a balance, and it may be tipped any day.

In some sense, said Tyrrell, life looks like one chance with no practice allowed, and no second chance—but there he was wrong.

CLEVER PLANNING EASES BURDEN OF PREPARING SUNDAY MEALS

By MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

It's heresy, I suppose, but such beautiful heresy—the club that a certain housekeeper group in a community not far from mine has formed to promote the abolishment of Sunday food orgies and incidentally, drudgery.

Even when Sunday was primarily a day of rest, it was never that for mother. But now that it has become the one time in the week when busy people get a Stir cold water into corn meal and when smooth put over the fire. Add boiling water, stirring constantly and cook until it forms a mush. Add salt, sugar, and butter and cool to lukewarm. Add mashed potatoes, yeast cakes dissolved in lukewarm potato water and stir well. Stir in flour and rye meal. Mix and knead to a smooth stiff dough using wheat flour on the board. Put into a large mixing bowl, cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Shape into loaves, roll in corn meal and put in greased bread pans. Let rise again until double in bulk and bake 1 hour in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.).

Pumpnickel is delicious toasted to serve with cheese. A good way to please everyone is to let those who want it toasted, toast it on an electric toaster when they are ready to eat it.

League to Co-ordinate Welfare Services of the State

Active support has been voted by the Illinois League of Women Voters to bills now before the legislature, which would co-ordinate the welfare services of the state. They are H. B. 32, introduced by Representative F. W. Lewis and S. B. 27, introduced by Senator Graham, and are known as the County Unit bills.

The League of Women Voters has worked for years for the principles they embody. They fulfill the federal requirements for a state system of public welfare before that state can qualify to receive federal aid.

The League, however, is actively working to have the County Unit bill amended to provide for adequate personnel standards. It believes that there is no party way of doing public welfare work and that the qualifications of the executive and staff of the county department are most vital.

Provisions for a state system of unemployment insurance as embodied in H. B. 17 and S. B. 10 have also been voted active support by the Illinois League of Women Voters, superseding a previous action of endorsement only.

The bills provide for a state pooled fund, rather than a plant reserve plan, and the system would apply to employers of eight or more persons, agricultural labor, domestic service, government employment and employment with non-profit organizations being excluded.

MARK TWAIN

(On the 100th Anniversary of His Birth)

By Helen Welshimer
YOU wrote of life so gaily when the tired throngs needed mirth: You understood the beauty of the common things of earth, And talked of them so simply that the whole world understood The meaning of your message, and in gladness, called it good.

YOU could not stand injustice and you fought all social wrong With barbed wit that was kindly, and humor, clean and strong; And though the years, in passage, bring many men who face A struggling world with bravery, none comes to take your place.

PHILOSOPHER, sage, jester and spinner of romance, Bold champion of the suffering, the long years but enhance The greatness of a spirit, not wound by any age, That wrote Olympic drama for a sympathetic stage.

WHO SHARES?

(Council Bluffs Nonpareil) Ford made an automobile. Maytag made a washing machine.

It appears that both were good machines and sold at prices that attracted buyers. Both got rich. One got richer than the other, but both sold enough machines to become very wealthy.

There is a little connection, not between the men, but between the machines. Both machines were sold to ordinary folks. The farmer and the mechanic bought Fords. The women who did their own washing bought the washing machine. Both bought because they needed it. The Ford made the long miles short. The washer shortened the day, relieved weariness and toil, and offered time for other matters. Might say within reason both were poor folks, working folks' machines.

Ford, a bench mechanic, "grewed" like Topsy. He left the bench but he put 100,000 other men in his place. Maytag started a factory to build a few washers. It grew. It aided greatly to make a 10,000 city grow out of a little town. It paid wages to other men for making washing machines and parts of washing machines, and they raised families, bought homes. No, the Fords and Maytags didn't get it all. Not by those hundred thousands the factories employed. But both got rich. Other able and active men have done the same thing.

But did it make them public enemies?

Coming close to home as wealth gaining and wealth sharing this Maytag manufacturer, who got rich paying other men wages, seems to have done some sharing. An Iowa newspaper recently published some interesting figures of Newton and the founder of the factory which has had much to do with the prosperity of the town, like this: Maytag hotel and office building $1,000,000
Y. M. C. A. 250,000
Birthdays gift to employees 132,000
Skiff Memorial hospital 15,000
Pipe organ and subscription to 15,000
Presbyterian church 5,000
Sacred Heart church 75,000
Salvation Army citadel 250,000
Maytag park (now under construction)

Now do we want such factories though those who found and operate them gain wealth by their operation? Or shall we consider them as public enemies?

What town or city or what resident in either would not welcome a factory, its employment, its wage roll as a public benefaction though the founder and operator did grow rich instead of remaining a bench worker?

How shall we "redistribute" ambition, ability, and resourcefulness along with the mere money we may confiscate? How confiscate brains, energy and inventiveness?

UNFORTUNATE COMPARISON

An admiral in the British navy works under a handicap not unlike that of a lad who tries to play halfback for the University of Illinois. The latter is inevitably compared with Red Grange; the Britisher is certain to be compared with Lord Nelson.

Admiral Jellicoe, who died the other day at 75, suffered unduly from the comparison. Nelson made a deathless reputation by hunting the enemy all over the seven seas and blasting him everlastingly out of the water when he found him.

Jellicoe's task was different; circumstances compelled him to play a safety first game, and it consequently has taken people a long time to realize that he served the empire as truly as did Nelson—in a different way.

Jellicoe fought Jutland, lost more ships than his foe, and left the German fleet unsunk. But he did save British naval superiority in the North Sea, and that was all he was supposed to do.

Had he tried to do more, he might have lost the whole war in one day. He had the solid good sense to refuse to try to be a Nelson in a spot where Nelsonian tactics weren't needed.

A CLIPPER LEAVES PORT

You can always make the average American sigh for the vanished romance of the past by spinning a good tale of the far-off clipper era, when beautiful ships from the New England yards skimmed over every sea and carried the American flag to the ends of the earth. Here business and adventure were combined in a singularly effective way, and few of us can read of that era without wishing that we might get some of its flavor back, somehow.

But we are pretty blind if we are unable to see that our own era is giving us the same sort of thing. When that amazing seaplane, the China Clipper, took off from San Francisco to inaugurate regular trans-Pacific service, the ghosts of the old clipper ship people must have given her a cheer.

Here, as of old, beauty is combined with utility, and adventure with commerce. The result is something every bit as romantic as anything the heyday of the age of sail could produce.

It is better that Englishmen should receive good wages making armaments—which, I pray to God, may never be used—than walking in the streets living on the dole.—A. Duff Cooper, British official.

The best home economics expert is your mother. The best recreational expert is your father.—Bishop Louis B. Kucera, in speech at high school dinner, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Worshippers who are kind enough to contribute buttons to the collections are requested to bring their own and not pull them off the hassocks.—The Rev. G. R. Balleine, London vicar, addressing congregation.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

It surely was a sight to see the ants all using energy to hack holes in the sugar bag. They met with great success.

The sugar flowed out to the ground and little piles were all around. One ant exclaimed, "We've made all of the holes we need, I guess."

"What do you plan on doing now?" said Scouty. "Can't we help, somehow? You all look rather tired, and we feel peppy as can be."

"I'll lend a hand and have real fun, if you'll explain what's to be done. I know the other Tinymites are ready to help me."

"You bet we are," yelled Copy. "Say, I feel that I could work all day." And then an ant exclaimed, "That's fine, I hope you'll do your best."

"You see, our ant hill is nearby. We'd like to see you Tinymites try to take some of the sugar there. Then we will take the rest."

"We have a little hole that you can use. It will be handy, too, if you don't let the sugar spill. Oh, wait! I have a plan."

"In lumps the sugar we will press. 'Twill make it easier, I guess. If you don't think this can be done, we'll show you that it can!"

The sugar then was moistened and the pressing stunt worked out just grand. "Bring on the hod," cried Windy, "and we'll load it to the top."

"I'll take the first load. I am strong, and I'm sure nothing will go wrong. Somebody follow, though, 'cause I might let some sugar drop."

The largest ant of all the bunch stepped up and said, "I have a hunch that I'd best take the first load, so's to lead you to our hill." The Tinymites helped give him a load and he went walking down the road. "That's heavy," Dotty said. "I'll bet he'll shortly have his fill."

THOMAS J. LEGGITT

(Contributed)

Thomas Jefferson Leggett, son of Julia and Joseph Leggett, was born in Hagerstown, Maryland, on August 30th, 1862 and departed from this earthly life on November 26th, 1935 at the age of 73 years, 2 months, and 21 days.

In his early childhood, his parents moved to Forrester, Ill., where he grew to manhood. On November 28th, 1883, he was united in marriage to Eliza Myers of Pine Creek, Ogle County, who preceded him in death on May 10th, 1934. This union was blessed with five children, two having preceded their parents in death. Mary in infancy, and Charles on February 8th, 1934.

Mr. Leggett moved to Dixon about 26 years ago, and for about 20 years he was employed in the service of the Chicago and North-Western Railway here. He led a very ambitious life and took great interest in his work, and was never idle. His sudden death came as a shock to his many friends although his health has been failing him for the past few months and he grieved continually over the loss of his beloved wife with whom he had lived for over half a century. He will be greatly missed by his many friends and by his family of four little grandchildren who have been in close companionship with their grandfather all their lives.

He leaves to mourn his loss, three children, Mrs. Julian Hindon, Whitetail, Montana; Mrs. Edna Hugos, Saskatchewan, Canada; and Ira of this city. Also three brothers, Elsworth of Oregon, John and William, both of Chicago and eleven grandchildren and other relatives.

A precious one from us is gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled.

God in His wisdom has recalled The boon His love had given And though the body slumber here I'm sure his soul is safe in Heaven.

Funeral services were held from the Staples chapel with Rev. Walter W. Marshall in charge. Miss Lucille Miller and Mrs. C. J. McLean, accompanied by Mrs. Milliken at the piano, sang two beautiful selections, "Where They Never Say Good By," and "Good Night Here but Good Morning Up There." Casket bearers were John Nettz, Dan Curran, Albert Pettit, E. Fischer, H. Rizner and Ben Ryan. Interment was made in the Pine Creek cemetery.

Lucia Zarate, New York dwarf, is said to have been the smallest person ever born. She measured 20 inches in height. Tom Thumb, most famous dwarf, measured 31 inches.

Milestones of American Genius

Memorial to the cotton gin inventor.

ELI WHITNEY

THE mechanical and engineering genius which has made America the world's foremost industrial nation is symbolized by the figure of one of our first and most significant inventors, Eli Whitney. Not only his technical talents, but the elements of ambition and pertinacity in his character, place him in the roster of great Americans whose memory is a perpetual source of inspiration.

Eli Whitney was 24 years old before he succeeded in entering Yale for the education which he craved as a basis for his inventive urge. Poverty and the opposition of his parents had prevented him before that. He had been born at Westboro, Mass., on December 8, 1765, and his mechanical ingenuity was evident from childhood. His perseverance against immense odds enabled him to turn that ingenuity to account. By saving for years out of small earnings from odd jobs he accumulated the wherewithal for a belated education.

Chance led him to Savannah after completing the college course. There he observed the tedious manual method of cleaning raw cotton. He heard of the decision of many of the foremost planters to abandon cotton growing as unprofitable. The problem fired his imagination.

Within a year Eli Whitney produced the first model of his cotton gin, which accomplished in an hour what it had taken many days to do by hand. Overnight almost the cotton industry became a leading source of American wealth and power, and King Cotton sat enthroned on Eli Whitney's cotton gin. Two years before the epoch-making invention, American cotton exports were a scant 20,000 pounds. Twenty-five years later they had mounted to 270,000, 000—and this growth was due primarily to the Yankee grit and American daring of the self-made inventor.

The cotton gin brought its inventor but little personal financial return. It was not until some years later, when his improvements in firearms made him more affluent, that he was able to taste the comfortable existence that his genius merited.

Eli Whitney died on January 8, 1825, at New Haven, Conn. The North, which was his home, and the South, which he had so vastly enriched, joined in mourning the nation's loss. The dignified sarcophagus memorial which marks his last resting place in a New Haven cemetery—shown in the sketch above—expresses aptly the nobility of his character and the solid worth of a pioneer industrial inventor.

Mrs. Inez Rafferty returned home Monday from the Compton hospital much improved in health.

Miss Eulalia Brees of the Mendota high school teacher's conference was in Paw Paw this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Safford of Sycamore called on friends here on Sunday.

"The Heart Cry" a three act comedy was presented by the Junior class Friday evening. The presentation showed hard work on the part of both the director Mr. Ross and the participants. The play dealt with the scheme of a villain very aptly portrayed by Roger Douglass and his partner in the person of Irwin Gallagher, to get possession of a ranch of a sweet old lady, Mrs. Lynde, (Norma Rosekrans). In order to do this they employ the service of an ex-soldier, played by Harlan Douglass. The roles of heroic Irvington Hof and Arlynn Adams in the character parts were especially good. Interest was stimulated by the specialties between the acts. Glenn Beemer and LaVerne Haug as a comedy team displayed great talent. Other features which were appreciated were a tap dance by Mildred Green, a solo by Marie Crouch, a Marylouise Locke, all accompanied at the piano by Miss Work. The committees in charge of the costumes, make up and so forth as well as the sophomore girls who did the ushering should all be commended.

Miss Olive W. Rosette left on Sunday evening for Salt Lake City, Utah, where her marriage to Lloyd Robert Newcomer of Coalville, Utah was solemnized Wednesday, Nov. 27 at the Methodist church in Salt Lake City. Miss Rosette is the third daughter of Mrs. Ida Englehart Rosette of Earlville, formerly of Paw Paw and a sister of Mrs. Dale Rosenkrans of this place whom she has visited frequently. She is a graduate of the DeKalb high school and a member of the Ravenswood hospital school of nursing of 1931. Mr. Newcomer is a graduate of the DeKalb high school and Wyoming university. ## Story With Moral, In Mark Twain's Own Handwriting

"Shall I Be Good?" He Asked Himself, Then Let These Snapshots "Register the progress of a Moral Purpose Through the Mind"—To a Conclusion that is Typical of the Humorist Whose Centery is Observed Today

Just a little experiment in fun in Samuel L. Clemens' (Mark Twain's) inimitable way is progressively pictured in these photographs which have just come to public view with the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the famed humorist's birth. In serio-comic fashion, Clemens "demonstrated" how an idea moved along from the moment it flashed into his mind until it reached a conclusion. The pictures, with comments in the author's own handwriting, tell the story far more eloquently than could straight narrative. ## When the easiest way is the best way...

There are no two ways about it! Certainly the easiest way to get the most for every dollar you spend is to buy products that you know about through the advertisements in your daily paper. You don't have to go out and look for buying opportunities. The advertisements bring them to you. And all you need to do is consider the facts, compare values and decide on the soap or the sedan that best fits your judgment and your pocketbook.

Certainly the best way of making your money go farthest is to buy merchandise of proved value. Advertised merchandise. Merchandise that is bought and used by many people. Merchandise that must be superlatively good enough for its makers to keep calling it to the attention of people day after day and year after year.

This is the service—of convenience and profit—that the advertisements offer you every day. It will pay you to read them regularly and take advantage of everything they can do for you.

SPORTS

FOOTBALL TO END REIGN IN TODAY'S GAMES

Unbeaten Teams To Risk Rose Bowl Prospects

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Football forces of the nation rallied today for the close of the 1935 gridiron show.

Most of the teams had hung up their cleats for the year, but a few choice battles were on tap for the windup of one of the most erratic campaigns in the memory of old football seers.

More than 80,000 poured into Philadelphia for the annual classic between the future admirals and generals of Uncle Sam.

In Texas, two teams that had not met defeat in ten starts—Texas Christian and Southern Methodist—clashed in a game that may decide Stanford's Rose Bowl opponent.

At New Haven, one of the best teams in Princeton's history sought revenge on Yale, which knocked the Tigers from the undefeated class last year.

Holy Cross, which in a last quarter letdown allowed Manhattan to score the only 13 points registered against it all season, faced its traditional rival, Boston College. A general comparison of the teams' records showed an edge for Holy Cross.

Dartmouth Plays Columbia

Dartmouth was favored to trim a weak Columbia team in New York, while Georgetown and Western Maryland loomed as a tossup.

Louisiana State was favored to top Tulane and clinch the Southeastern conference title, a victory which might entitle the Tigers to represent Dixie in the Sugar Bowl game.

Mississippi State was picked to beat Mississippi in their traditional battle while Georgia shaped up as the winner in its tussle with Georgia Tech. This game had all the elements of a stirring duel, however. Auburn was picked to down Florida at Miami.

Rice was the choice over the Baylor while on the coast the husky St. Mary's Gaels were favored to defeat Washington State and the University of California at Los Angeles looked too good for Idaho.

In a game last night, the University of Miami held scoreless for more than three quarters by a heavier Boston University eleven, rolled up 17 points in five minutes to win 17-0 before 5,000 spectators at Miami.

KNOX JUBILANT OVER FOOTBALL TEAM THIS YEAR

Siwash Erased Old Reputation Made During 1934

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 30.—The sons of old Knox college, who mourned over a record of 27 consecutive football defeats a year ago, today rubbed their hands over Siwash's most successful gridiron campaign since 1929.

Only a year ago headlines proclaimed that Old Siwash had tied Hobart college's record of unbroken setbacks, following an overwhelming Thanksgiving Day beating from Monmouth college. Knox hadn't even scored a point during the 1934 season, and the outlook was bleak.

All that is changed now. Under a new coach, Pete Reynolds, Siwash won five games during the recent campaign, lost two and tied two and was in the running for the Illinois Intercollegiate conference championship until Monmouth wrecked the title hopes by a margin of only one point—7 to 6, Thursday.

Scored In Every Game

Knox scored in every game this season. Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Ia., was the only foe to score more than one touchdown against Reynolds' eleven which averaged nine points a game to six for the enemy.

"This year's job was to teach fundamentals," Reynolds said. "We had to develop a punter and teach the boys to tackle, along with giving out just enough offensive stuff to cash in on a few of our scoring chances."

Reynolds will lose only four men by graduation, three of them reserves. Knox supporters figure the bell in "Old Main" will ring out tiding of a 1936 conference title.

ROSS ERASES HUMILIATION FROM GARCIA

He Wins Big Victory; Outgenerals His Latin Foe

Chicago, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Barney Ross, welterweight champion, had erased a humiliating spot from his record today through a handsome triumph over Ceferino Garcia, rugged Los Angeles Filipino.

Back in September Garcia knocked Ross down twice in the first round of a ten rounder in San Francisco, and made him hustle his head off for an unpopular decision. Last night in the Chicago Stadium Ross gave the Filipino a boxing lesson in a savage ten round non-title bout.

Ross, at 141½ pounds, gave a grand demonstration of superiority over a dangerous contender for welterweight honors. He outgeneraled Garcia throughout. In the sixth he shifted his attack from Garcia's body to a stream of straight lefts to the face. A left and right to the head in the ninth that sent Garcia stumbling backward almost across the ring was the closest thing to a knockdown for either fighter.

Although decisively beaten, Garcia, who weighed 148 pounds, was dangerous every minute.

A crowd of 9,154 paid $21,500 to watch the card, which included a decisive ten round victory for Freddie Miller, national boxing association featherweight titleholder, over Jimmy Christy, young Chicagoan. Miller's title, not recognized in Illinois, was not involved.

FALL RACING SEASON ENDS IN MARYLAND

Bowie, Md., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Maryland's fall racing season closes here today with a sparkling, seven-race getaway card on tap.

Heading the program was the $5,000 added Bryan and O'Hara Memorial handicap richest stake of the Bowie meeting. Nine horses, representing six interests, were named for the mile and three-sixteenths distance.

Walter M. Jeffords entered Fire-Thorn and Judy O'Grady, Fire-Thorn, victor over Discovery in the Washington handicap at Laurel, was the pre-race favorite.

Two other entries were named. Selby L. Burch coupled his Thursday with Mrs. Marion Du Pont Somerville's Tweedledee, winner of the Thanksgiving handicap here, and Robert S. Clark's Malbrook and Braedabane stable's Weston were coupled in the third entry.

The other three horses are Mrs. Deering Howe's Only One, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Purple Knight and C. V. Whitney's Roustabout.

Another "Bowl Game" In Making; This Time It's Coconut Bowl

Miami, Fla., Nov. 30.—Football enthusiasts here are considering sponsorship of a regular post-season high school classic to go along with the Pasadena Rose Bowl, and the proposed Miami Orange Bowl games.

If it pans out, the Coconut Bowl will be the name. Christmas Day would be the annual date and a Miami team and some strong rival from the east or middle west the contestants.

Intersectional Christmas games are not new in this city. Since 1929, when Miami high's Stingarees defeated Salem, Mass., 7-6, an out-of-state high school has played here every December 25.

Requests to be matched for this year's game have been received.

MILLER HURT AS COLONY QUINT DROPS OPENER

Yellowjackets Lose 23-17 Decision to Lee Center

Bing Miller, Dixon State Hospital basketball forward was quite painfully injured last night in a game in which the Yellowjackets opened their cage season against Lee Center on the Hospital floor, the invaders winning 23 to 17. The score at half time was 13 to 7 in favor of Lee Center.

Miller was scrambling for the ball with a group of players under one of the baskets when he was jarred against a hook which protruded from the wall, inflicting a gash that necessitated twenty-eight stitches. He was reported resting easily today.

Against Lee Center, the Hospital crew used eight players, four forwards, a center, and three guards. Windmiller, playing forward, and Slim Mansfield occupying a guard position totalled the highest number of points. Other forwards who saw action were Miller, Doty, and Phelps. Springer acted at center, and Tony Guzzardo and Wryeman also acted as guards.

The Hospital quint will engage in its second game next Thursday, the foe not having yet been announced.

All-Conference N. C. I. Football Team is Picked

RICKEY MAKES LIGHT OF DEAL

Explains Parmelee-Whitehead Hookup and Rumor

St. Louis, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Branch Rickey, major domo of the St. Louis Cardinals, today pool-pooled the trade with the New York Giants and said it wasn't much of a deal.

Unless the two clubs rig up some new swap, not now contemplated, Rickey said baseball fans will be disappointed when the names of the players are revealed at the major league meeting at Chicago December 9.

"It does not involve star players," he said, "and when the players are identified, I believe the fans and baseball people will not consider it a big transaction."

During the recent minor league meeting at Dayton, O., when the deal was closed, reports were current that the Cards had swapped Burgess Whitehead, utility infielder, to the Giants for pitcher Bud Parmelee.

Rickey would not say whether these players were involved, but he did explain why their names were coupled together.

"A year or so ago," he pointed out, "it became known I was after Parmelee, and just before the minor league meeting Manager Bill Terry of the Giants was quoted as saying he was after Whitehead."

"So, when it was revealed the Cards and Giants had closed a deal, it was assumed Parmelee and Whitehead were the players to be exchanged."

"I promised not to name the men until the major league meeting, but I repeat that I do not believe it will be regarded as a major trade of star players."

Italy buying more iron and steel from U. S.

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A substantial October gain in Italian purchases of United States iron and steel was shown today in commerce department figures.

Continuing at high levels, Italy took 44,301 gross tons in that month compared with 40,432 in September and 18,021 tons in October 1934.

The Italian October purchase was more than half of all the European purchases of 80,816 tons, which, in turn, was 40 per cent of the 238,258 tons shipped from the United States throughout the world.

The administration, through both President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, has made repeated pleas to industry to halt shipments to either Italy or Ethiopia of materials useful for war purposes.

The shipping board has taken positive action in this direction where vessels in which the government has a financial interest are involved.

Total October exports of scrap iron and steel were down slightly from the previous month but continued above the same month last year. September shipments this year were 244,419 tons, while October, 1934, shipments were 222,207 tons.

While Japanese purchases of the metal were at lower levels than in previous months, she was still the heaviest single purchaser, buying 52,992 tons in October.

Nevada has only seven golf courses.

Without His Wife There'd Been No Rogers, Will Wrote in Reply to Telegrapher's Note

Will Rogers loved all mankind. He appreciated any degree of friendship or kindness extended to him.

In 1928 the "life for a pint" liquor enforcement law in Michigan was given national prominence in publicity print. Rogers defended, in his daily syndicated article, a Michigan widow with several young children to support who had been convicted of bootlegging for the third time and given the life sentence.

Joe R. Radsy, Western Union operator of Toledo, Ohio, received the daily message from the cowboy comedian for the Morning Times in Toledo. He, long an admirer of Will's, wrote Rogers, praising his defense of the convicted woman.

The telegrapher, not expecting an answer, was very much surprised and pleased when Rogers sent a type written, evidently laboriously done, pencil-signed reply.

He told Radsy that he appreciated his message, and that no editor would ever do a thing like that. "It took a Gentleman to do it," he cracked.

In closing he said, "My wife was a telegrapher operator, so I can't tell you how much I love the job. I have a nice place in my heart for all you birds, for so is some wife, and there's no wife there would have been on Will Rogers. Good luck to you."

With the announcement that handicapped children will be the principal beneficiaries of the Will Rogers Memorial Fund, there is a renewed interest in the opportunity of Will Rogers friends to participate in a living, continuing memorial to perpetuate his friendliness to mankind.

Take or send your subscription to any bank or bring it or send it to this office. It is the aim of the Commission to have millions of Will Rogers friends participate with a contribution. It is not the size of the subscription but the act itself that is important.

Traveling Around America

BLUE-BLOODED "RED SKINS"

HERE are some descendants of the real first settlers of America—Gautamian Indians whose ancestors, the Mayas, inhabited our continent hundreds of years before the Mayflower ever was launched. Inasmuch as they wear the same type of colorful costume, follow the same primitive mode of life, and cling to many of the ancient superstitions of their forebears, they present to travelers taking the fortnightly cruises between New York, the Spanish Americas and California a wonderful picture of the first inhabitants of America.

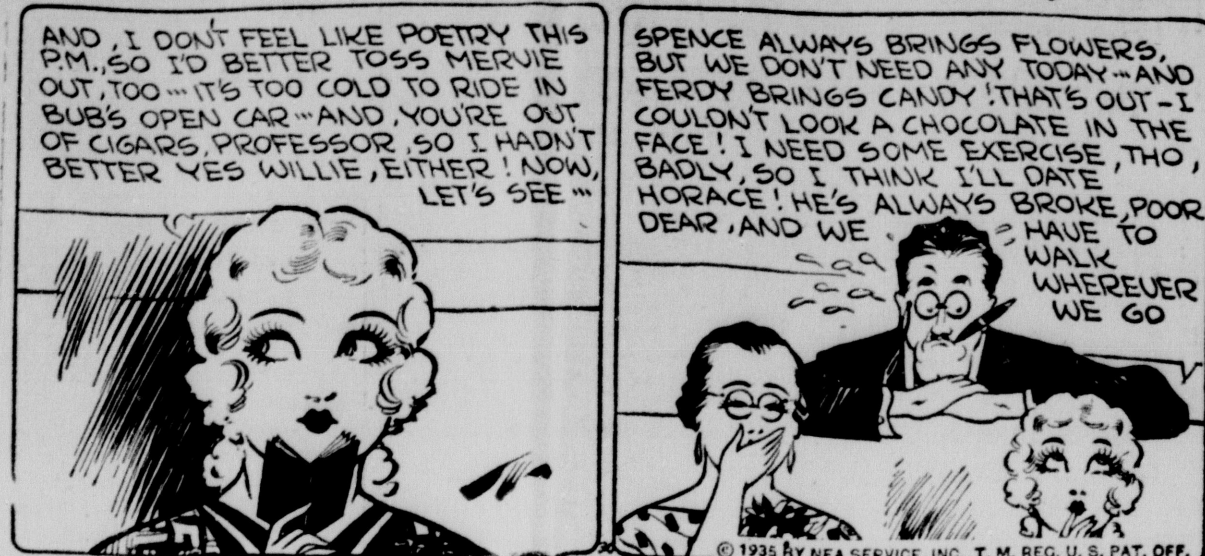

The youngsters shown above are more fortunate than the juniors of Mayan times however. Back in those days reeking, elongated foreheads and squinting eyes were the fashion—babies heads were strapped so that they would grow into the favored contour, and small dangles were suspended before their eyes to induce a squint. When a boy reached the age of four months—four was sacred because it was the number of the chief earth gods—he was given an axe and, with his father guiding his hand, was shown how to cut down his first tree. During the rest of the day he was made to follow the gestures of his father as the latter performed his daily tasks. In like manner, a girl at the age of three months—three being the sacred number for women from the fact that the heartstones numbered three—was forced to go through the motions of weaving and cooking, thus being introduced to the work and worry that is woman's lot.

BANKERS' DEBT ADVICE TO FDR IS QUESTIONED

President Asked to Reveal Who Gave Him Such Opinions

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's "homecoming day" speech at Atlanta was attacked and defended today by Republican and Democratic spokesmen.

Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee called it "sheer political propaganda" and asserted:

"The sudden interest in economy now shown by Candidate Roosevelt springs not from a desire to cease his political spending and squandering, but from his tardy realization that the long-suffering citizens are about to call a halt."

But to Chairman Buchanan (D-Tex.) of the house appropriations committee it was a "splendid review" of Roosevelt's "accomplishments."

"I do not believe," he said, "that the president's address was as much a campaign speech as it was an attempt to assure the people that the administration is not going to spend any more than it has to effect recovery."

Who Gave Advice?
"It was a plain-spoken speech and I thought the president gave a splendid review of his accomplishments."

Asserting that the daily average deficit since July through November 15 was $12,865,000, Fletcher asked:

"Will the president take the country into his confidence and name the bankers who said in 1933 that the country could stand a debt of between 55 and 70 billion dollars?"

Concerning this phase of Roosevelt's address, Robert V. Fleming, president of the American Bankers Association, told reporters he did not know the source of this advice and felt certain no officials of his association had given such estimates.

SEES "FAKE BALANCING"

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 30.—(AP)—While political leaders analyzed his Atlanta homecoming address, President Roosevelt resumes today the paring of the 1936 federal budget, from which he already has cut $400,000,000.

His speech yesterday, predicting a decreasing deficit, was called by Henry P. Fletcher, republican national chairman, "an obvious build-up for a future fake balancing of the budget by the New Deal sleight-of-hand."

The budget appears to be the big problem to which the president will point the next congress. During his next ten days here primary attention

Obviously Happy

Obviously happy over his reception at the Atlanta celebration, the president said on his return to "the little white house" that a quiet schedule would prevail today.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and their party motored back to Warm Springs late yesterday. At every town crowds gathered to wave greetings.

After the address, they had stopped at Fort McPherson for luncheon with General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the Fourth Corps Area.

The president was accompanied here by Charles West, Undersecretary of the Interior, who said he was merely making a social call.

The president took no notice of the absence of anti-administrationist Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia at the Atlanta fete. Governors Bibb Graves of Alabama, Dave Sholtz of Florida, and Olin Johnston of South Carolina shook hands with him after the meeting.

"Must Keep Word"

"As I have increased in years and in opportunity to study the affairs of governments, I have made a very simple but vital observation. That is that a government should have in financial matters the same standards that an honorable man has. A government must realize that money must be earned before it is spent, that a nation's word in finance must be sacredly kept, that a nation is immoral if it repudiates its obligations or inflates its mediums of exchange or borrows without regard to posterity; and finally, that a nation which violates these simple principles will like a man, end in dishonor and disaster.

"A government cannot expect financial honor in its people unless it maintains honor itself. A large part of the world's misery in all ages has come from the acts of government that ignored these principles and entered upon policies of reckless spending and debasement and repudiation.

"Our country shows hopeful signs of recovery despite great hindrances. That convalescence should be speeded and made secure. We should no longer tolerate financial policies that prolong unemployment, that create fear and distrust and uncertainty, that slowly but surely undermine the industrial structure on which the living of the whole nation depends. We should no longer tolerate a money system that is not a money system, but a hodge-podge of promiscuous ingredients that not even the administration will attempt to name, define, or defend. We should no longer tolerate gambling in the future of a nation with the dice of inflation. We should no longer tolerate a financial policy that does not balance the budget.

"Want to Know Truth
The American citizen wants to know where his savings are to be confiscated. The plain man wants to know whether his little life insurance policy is going to be worth anything at his death. The housewife wants to know whether her husband's wages are going to buy food for his family.

"There is a way to settle all these questions. That way is through abandonment of present financial and fiscal policies and return to sound policies. Do you wish a constructive fiscal program?

"The waste of taxpayers' money on unnecessary public works should end.

"The administration of relief should be turned over to local authorities. Federal expenditures for relief should be confined to cash allowances to these authorities to the extent that they are unable to provide their own funds.

"The spending for visionary and un-American experiments should be stopped.

"This horde of political bureaucracy should be rooted out.

"The provision of the constitution requiring that expenditures shall only be in accordance with appropriations actually made by law should be obeyed. And they should be made for specific purposes.

"The budget should be balanced not by more taxes; but by reduction of follies.

"The futile purchases of foreign silver should be stopped.

Favors Gold Return

"The gold standard should be re-established, even on the new basis.

"The act authorizing the President to inflate the currency should be repealed.

"The administration should give and keep a pledge to the country that there will be no further juggling of the currency and no further experiments with credit inflation.

"Confidence in the validity of promises of the government should be restored.

"The nation seeks for solution of its many difficulties. It is groping for security from economic storms and from individual poverty. But economic security, social security, or any other security cannot be found without first restoring these primary policies of government.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
After the death of her parents, lovely DANA WESTBROOK, the child of her mother's second marriage, comes to America to live with her grandmother, MRS. WILLARD CAMERON.
Dana's half-sister, NANCY WALLACE, feels bitter toward her.
Mrs. Cameron decides to introduce Dana to the social set at a party. Hoping rich RONALD MOORE will become seriously interested.
Dana, meanwhile, has met and become attracted to young DIT SCOTT STANLEY, who is poor. Nancy, who masks her love for Ronald behind an antagonistic attitude, dresses humbly for the party. Her happiness fades when she sees Dana, radiant and beautiful, in a rich frock.
Dana, alone on the porch while Ronald goes to bring her a glass of punch, hears a whistle from the garden. She goes there and finds Scott Stanley.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX

SCOTT eyed the girl intently. "I keep telling myself," he said, "that first impressions aren't reliable, that you couldn't be as wonderful as you seemed. I had to find out."

Dana answered coolly. "When you've finished your inventory I think I'd better go back to the house."

He ignored this. "It's probably the moonlight playing tricks," he went on. "Or that dress you're wearing. Even a plain girl would seem beautiful in that dress. Any how I don't dare trust my judgment. I'll have to see you again—soon."

Dana was amused. "And how many times," she asked, "will you need to see me before you make up your mind?"

"I might suggest most of your evenings—a lot of your afternoons—every Sunday. Or I might ask for all your days and tomorrow."

Dana's heart quickened to something in his voice. "Are you trying to make me believe you are in love with me?"

"No," Scott said slowly. "Not yet."

Abruptly he arose from the bench and pulled her into his arms. Their steps fell together easily, rhythmically. "Do you know that tune—'Living in the Middle of the Moonlight'?" he asked.

"Yes."

"But you haven't ever danced in the middle of it before?"

"No."

"You haven't danced like this before?" Scott urged, drawing her closer.

Dana broke from his arms. "Good night," she said. "I don't know what I'm thinking of."

She heard his laugh. As she reached the porch she heard him whispering softly. The sound stopped abruptly as Dana realized he had jumped over the garden wall.

She hoped her grandmother hadn't noticed her absence from the ballroom. With all that crowd dancing it wasn't likely.

BUT Dana was wrong. A short time before Mrs. Cameron had motioned to Nancy. "Dana's not on the floor," Mrs. Cameron said in a low voice. "Find her. In my day, 'twasn't considered proper to desert guests and sit out in dark corners with young men."

"Here comes my perennial partner," Nancy said. "Amuse Tommy for me and I'll see if I can lure Dana into the light."

She went into the hall. There was another door leading to the side veranda and this way she would avoid the curious eyes and also the danger of having someone, like Tommy, tag on.

Nancy suspected Dana was sitting out with Ronnie, and had no pleasure in her mission. "Just like Gran to pick me for a job like this," Nancy thought gloomily.

are the invisible forces which surround every American fireside. They determine the happiness of every American home. In their rightful direction lies the safety of these homes and the fruition of their hopes. They determine the welfare of our children and the progress of our nation."

"The waste of taxpayers' money on unnecessary public works should end.

Nancy repaired the damage of the tears, smoothing on powder, adding a little more rouge.

But the darkened veranda was deserted. Nancy stood for a moment close to the vines, which were stirred by the cool night wind. She turned, startled. Ronnie was coming toward her, holding a glass in his hand. "That gang in there would turn Niagara into a Sahara desert," he complained. "Thought I'd never get through to the punch bowl."

The girl in the shadows did not reply. Ronnie placed his glass on the banister railing. "It was because I wanted to get out here with you, that made me so impatient. I'm out of my head about you."

His voice shook with emotion, as he took Nancy in his arms and kissed her.

The next moment Nancy's voice, choked with feeling, fell on Ronnie's amazed ears. "I suppose you go around kissing all the girls you know, Ronnie. But even at that, I'm surprised you picked on me."

"Nancy, honestly, I'm sorry," Ronnie said. His amazement was genuine. "I didn't know—"

"So you didn't know you were kissing me?" Nancy asked.

"Great heavens, no! You don't think I would—well, out of a clear sky like that—"

Nancy said in a queer tone. "You thought I was—someone else."

Ronnie replied, miserably. "I didn't know you were out here. Anyway, I guess I've had too much. That punch is plenty spiked. And I've had a couple of drinks on the side."

"I suppose you want me to think you're plastered, Ronnie. It isn't necessary to apologize. The incident is forgotten. So far as I'm concerned, it never happened. My memory is likely to be awfully short where a kiss of yours is concerned."

"Oh, is it?" said Ronnie, nettled by the stinging tone. "Very well, I won't lose any sleep. I was feeling abject and all that, but if that's how you feel, we'll wipe the whole thing out."

"Like this," Nancy said. Her eyes blazed fiercely at him. She rubbed her lips vigorously with a wisp of dainty handkerchief. And then was gone.

RONNIE did not follow. He was very much disturbed. It was bad enough to kiss another girl, when he had believed, for one ecstatic moment, that Dana was in his arms, responding to his kiss. But it was infinitely worse that the other girl had been Nancy. What a little vixen she was! There wasn't a doubt that she had been angry. Her voice had cut him like a lash. Her black eyes had burnt him with contempt.

And then Ronnie saw the flutter of a white dress in the shadows of the old garden. Dana came up the steps, breathless from running. "Ronnie, what must you think of me?"

"Where in the world have you been?" Ronnie demanded.

"In the garden," Dana said. "It's gorgeous out there in the moonlight."

"What's the good of moonlight, alone?" Ronnie protested. "Let's see it together."

"Not tonight," Dana shook her head. "I must be getting back. People will be missing us."

Mrs. Cameron saw Dana and Ronnie dancing together, and relaxed in her chair. Girls would be modern. These ways were not the ways she had known. In her day a girl would never be so bold, openly courting the favor of a young man by leaving the dance floor with him and seeking secluded corners. Nobody seemed to think anything of it now.

There were Cynthia Baxter and Bill Lorimer going out on the front porch now. And Harriet Prescott and Dick Webster just coming in, with Harriet's blond hair looking as if she'd met a small cyclone.

Lee County Farm Bureau Session, Dec. 7

Members of the Lee County Farm Bureau will convene in annual session Saturday, Dec. 7 at Amboy Township High School at 10:00 o'clock A. M., according to an announcement made last week by Farm Adviser C. E. Yale of this city. The annual business session, reports, and election will be held before lunch. It is very important that every Farm Bureau member be there promptly at 10 o'clock in order to get benefits from the various reports.

The Farm Bureau is becoming so extended that it takes much longer on reports than formerly. Talmadge De Fries of Smithboro, Ill., vice-president of the Illinois Agricultural Association has been secured as the principal speaker. He will appear on the program in the afternoon session. Mr. De Fries was born within only two miles of his present home at Smithboro, Ill., 56 years ago. As a young man he secured an appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, but when he found it was impossible to go, his brother, now an admiral in the Navy, went in his place. Mr. De Fries attended Greenville college near his home and later studied at Drake University of Des Moines, Iowa and at the University of Chicago. As one of the outstanding farmers of southwestern Illinois, Mr. De Fries was awarded a Master Farmer's gold medal in 1930. His chief pride is a 40 acre orchard of apple trees and a fine herd of Holstein cattle. He farms a 240 acre fruit and dairy farm two miles east of the town of Smithboro.

Mr. De Fries became a member of the Farm Bureau shortly after its organization in Bond county, more than 15 years ago. He is completing his fifth term as president of that organization. In 1932 he was elected as director from the 22nd district on the I. A. A. board at the Rockford meeting. Last January he was elected vice president of the association at the annual convention at Quincy. A firm believer in co-operative marketing, Mr. De Fries sells his fruit to the Illinois Fruit Growers Exchange, which he has served as director for a number of years. One year he sold 22 carloads of apples through the exchange and has sold up to 7000 bushels at the packing sheds on the farm. Mr. De Fries has had much experience as a platform speaker and during recent years has spoken before a large number of county Farm Bureau annual meetings and similar gatherings.

The evening program will be devoted to talent discovery such as plays, impersonations and other numbers sponsored by the Insurance Department of the Farm Bureau. This will be similar to what was held a year ago at the Catholic hall for the first time. Any Farm Bureau members wishing to participate should get in touch with L.

J. Ullenavary at the Farm Bureau office.
